

Tuition-FREE opportunities in SUNY ERIE's

Brewing Science & Service Program

The New York State Department of Labor awarded SUNY Erie (formerly Erie Community College) grant money to grow the College's innovative Brewing Science and Service Certificate program by providing TUITION FREE spots in the certificate program for eligible individuals!

The Brewing Science and Service Certificate program provides graduates with the skills they need to increase their employment, retention, and earning potential in the brewing industry. Hands-on training along with theoretical courses enhance student knowledge in this specialized field, which includes brewing technology, operations, sales and management, and advanced brewing-related business sectors. This one-year, 31-credit curriculum includes online coursework as well as an internship.

Classes begin May 21st. Registration is happening NOW!
